Dear Excellency,

We are concerned that the Japanese government has plans to start transporting 1000 kg of plutonium from Europe to Japan 3 to 4 times a year starting this autumn for the purpose of using it as an energy source. The route to be taken may be very close to your country. The most toxic and deadliest material existing in the world may leak or explode in the event of an accident or trouble, or even a terrorist attack right near your coast.

Please raise serious voices of concern and ask the Japanese government to make public all information regarding safety of the transport.

Sincerely yours,

Kumiko Naka
